DIAMOND-LIKE ORDER IN ZINC-BLENDE COMPOUNDS

David B. Laks, Rita Magri,* and Alex Zunger

National Renewable Energy Laboratory, Golden, CO 80401 USA

(Received 15 November 1991 by A. A. Maradudin)

We show that the energy of substitutional randomization of atoms in zincblende compounds is surprisingly small. This suggests the existence of a new plant of defeatain these materials ("nandom accounts") which consist of

